

A Special Story

Grandpa Brian had just graduated from college and decided to spend a year of immersion in Vladivostok. Following the advice of his parish priest he contacted the Mary Mother of God Mission Society and learned of the Grandma Mentoring Program. Here is Brian's story as told by him.

I think my main service is to be a positive male role model for the young kids, most of whom are between the ages of 3 and 5 years old. It's a shame, but the children are starving for attention, mainly from men. It is not their fault, but the odds of succeeding in life are stacked heavily against them. It is my hope that the guidance and love from me can point them down the right track in life so that they do not become another statistic. Also, I hope that my daily visits teach them the importance of commitment. They love spending time out of doors exploring everything from parked cars to snowy hills or just what I happen to have in my pockets that day.

They still get a kick out of the size of my gloves compared to theirs. I'm surprised at how well they respond when I quiz them on the days of the week, colors or numbers. When they switched from calling me "Papa" to "Brian" it touched me. When we first went inside, the nurses didn't have to show me around, the kids couldn't wait to give me a tour. They were starting to feel more of a connection and a bond with me, which was essential to my goal. I was more than just the guy who brought them candy. I became a friend.

I love seeing them bundle up in their little snowsuits, made up of mixed and matched coats and gloves. It's amazing how cheerful and excited they always are. Perhaps they don't fully understand their situation. Sometimes I fail to grasp it myself. Usually on the bus it'll hit that they don't have a mother and a father to care for them. They don't have a warm loving home like I did. It doesn't always register. Sometimes I slip and ask them if they have brothers or sisters and they respond with blank stares.

Above all they long for physical contact

Heading outside, it's common to have ten different kids each grabbing onto one of my fingers. I have to be careful, however. Tanya loves to be picked up and carried, but once I do that, they all start screaming and waving their little arms in the air, aiming to get the same attention. At the end of the day I'm usually tired, hungry and dirty but I feel great!

Reviving the Catholic Church in Eastern Russia

What is it?

This is a unique program in Southeast Russia that pairs caring adults with needy orphans.

Who are the Grandmas?

A Grandma is any adult involved with our parish in Vladivostok, Russia. Grandpas get involved too!

Why they do what they do

The Grandmas (and Grandpas) typically are parishioners who do not have full-time employment and who don't have enough pension to cover their basic living needs such as food and shelter.

This program allows them to spend time doing something they love while also providing a source of income for their personal needs. The parish in Vladivostok gives a Grandma $60.00 monthly. The Grandmas spend 48 hours per month in personal one-on-one time with the orphans.

Who benefits?

There typically are few workers in the orphanages, so the orphans have little personal one-on-one time with an adult. Emotional disorders due to lack of human touch are common.

Since emotional nourishment is so essential to a child's well being, the children are the direct beneficiaries of this program. Each Grandma visits an orphanage several times a week sharing his or her love with the children.

Many of our mentors are lonely elders, without their own grandchildren. Many have never had children, or their own children have died or moved away. The Grandmas and Grandpas love spending time with the orphans, and are able to give of themselves in a direct and personal way.

This program also benefits the supporters who contribute to help make it happen! The cost of sponsoring a Grandma for one month is only $60, small amount to the fruits gained for a child and elder. Supporters may assist with any amount within their means to assist this program.

The Communist culture of the recent past did not allow for nurturing one another. The Grandma Mentoring Program opens the door to live as Christ teaches us. This is one of the most successful charitable works we have developed, and we hope it catches on and spreads throughout Russia! We ask for and appreciate your prayers for the mission, orphans, Grandmas and Grandpas!
